European Nations May Seek New Debt Settlement Plan In 1937

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Tomorrow, December 15, is international pay-day, but save for little Finland none of the foreign debtors that owe the United States approximately $12,500,000,000 is expected to make any payments on the debt.

Great Britain has already notified the treasury that it will again default on the installment due. A French note, couched in similar terms, is on the way.

May Reopen Question

The expectation in Washington is that sometime in the new year an effort will be made by the principal debtors, Britain, France and Italy, to reopen the whole debt question. Such a move on their part would be welcomed in Washington.

The last negotiations resulted in failure. Early in the Roosevelt administration there was a veritable parade of visiting statesmen to Washington to discuss the debt, but nothing ever came of the discussion. They broke down when the only real offer was summarily rejected by the American government. This was the offer of then Premier Ramsay MacDonald of Great Britain, to scale down the debts to 10 per cent of the principal.

State Crime Conference Starts At Harrisburg

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 14.—Pennsylvania's department of justice looked toward possible revision of criminal law and procedure today as it played host to the commonwealth's first crime conference.

The conference, to last three days, will be attended by prominent criminologists, penologists, judges, district attorneys, local and national law enforcement officails and parole agents.

Every phase of crime and the criminal and what to do for and about both will be discussed at the conference. Many of its recommendations are expected to find their way into the commonwealth's statute books through action of the 1937 general assembly.

A commission, under the direction of Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti, has already started work on recodifying the commonwealth's criminal laws and is studying a modern system of procedure.

The commission is made up of Dr. Herbert F. Goodrich, dean of the University of Pennsylvania law school; William E. Mikell, professor of law and former dean of the school, and Edwin R. Keedy, member of the school's faculty.

Edenburg Viaduct Is Formally Opened Before Large Crowd

Eighty years to the day from the time the old Edenburg covered bridge was placed in service, a newer, finer structure was dedicated when on Saturday, December 12, the new Edenburg viaduct and the highway approaching it east and west were opened.

An estimated 2000 or more attended the ceremonies which were held on the larger span which crosses the Mahoning river and the B. & O. and P. & L. E. railroads.

Better weather could hardly have been secured for a December day. Rain which had threatened for 24 hours decided to stay away, there was little wind the day was almost comfortable. It was by far the largest crowd ever to attend such a ceremony in this country.

Crowd Gathers Early.

Long before 2:30, automobiles had begun to park at and near the viaduct and by 2:30 there were hundreds of cars on both sides of the viaduct. When the exercises opened cars were lined for a quarter of a mile each way with others parked on the side roads. Rev. Fr. William F. Galvin, assistant pastor of St. Mary's church, pronounced the invocation.

The American Legion band under the direction of Joe F. Replogle, opened the program with a military march and Judge W. Walter Braham took over the post of chair-

Bitter Cold Forces Lull At Madrid

Spain's Civil War Flares Into Sudden Activities In West However

REBELS FORSEE SUSTAINED SIEGE

By THOMAS A. LOAYZA
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MADRID, Dec. 14—Bitter cold forced a continued lull on the Madrid front today, but Spain's civil war flared into sudden activity in the west.

At Asalamanca Rebels asserted they had killed 300 Loyalists in a battle along the nearby Cornellas-Salas line, and that the government suffered further losses in fighting on the Villareal front.

May Kill Half Of Population

Down at Seville General Quieppo de Llano, insurgent leader, announced over the radio that, "If the Reds insist much longer half the population of Spain will have been killed before the war is ended."

This was seen here as tacit admission by the Rebels that they are in for a long siege if they persist in pushing the war.

The government here announced a plane believed to have been piloted by Major Ramon Franco, brother of General Francisco Franco, Rebel leader, was brought down on the Bay of Biscay by Loyalist pursuit planes. Major Franco, famed as a flyer, was former air attache at the Spanish embassy in Washington.

Loyalist Activity

From Barcelona came reports of intense Loyalist activity, particularly air, against insurgents in the northeast.

A plan for an international zone at the Port of Barcelona, under consular protection, was outlined to consular representatives. The plan would establish a free port of supplies, keeping it separate from the military zone, presumably lessening the danger of an international explosion resulting from the war on this front.

New British King Observes His Birthday

Anniversary However Does Not Interfere With His New Duties

CHURCH OF ENGLAND ATTACKS GAIETY

Archbishop Of Canterbury Creates Sensation In Rebuke To Abdicating Monarch

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Dec. 14—While the Church of England marshalled its forces for a drive against "Edwardian Gaiety" the birthday of the new King George VI was celebrated in London and throughout the British empire today with flying flags and saluting cannon.

The celebration came as church authoritics pointed to the new monarch as the standard bearer of British respectability, and called attention of the nation to the fact that yesterday, his first Sunday as king, he attended church.

Attends To New Duties

King George, however, did not let his birthday interfere with his duties. He was introduced to the Buckingham palace secretariat and spent the morning acquainting himself with state business. He will preside over a birthday dinner party at his Piccadilly residence tonight.

At Buckingham palace, King George received Viscount Halifax, Lord Privy Seal and then drove to his home for a birthday luncheon attended by Queen Mary, Queen Elizabeth, the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester, the Princess Royal, the Earl and Countess of Athlone and others.

Little Princess Elizabeth heiress to the throne and her sister Princess Margaret Rose, joined the gathering after luncheon.

Among the birthday messages received by the new king was one from Chancellor Hitler.

Blunt Rebuke To Nation

Meanwhile the entire nation was stirred to its depths by a blunt rebuke, uttered solemnly by the archbishop of Canterbury in an historic radio broadcast, to former King Edward and his circle of friends. The archbishop demanded a religious re-

Ready To Submit Trade Proposals

Two Proposals Will Be Offered Inter-American Peace Conference At Buenos Aires

TRADE BARRIERS WOULD BE REDUCED

(International News Service)

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 14.—The United States was scheduled today to submit two economic proposals to the inter-American peace conference, one relating to excessive trade barriers and the second upholding the principle of equality in commerce.

Under the first proposal, signatories would agree to reduce excessive trade barriers and avoid imposing obstacles to importation of products from other signatory nations

They would also extend to other signatories all special trade advantages accorded them by any other countries, whether signatories or non-signatories of the proposed pact.

Will Be Accepted

The second proposal would oblige signatories to reaffirm that the "principle of equality in treatment stands and must continue to stand as the basis of all acceptable commercial policy,' and would bind participants to bend all efforts to discourage discriminatory trade and exchange controls.

A quick canvass of opinion among the various delegations showed the proposals will probably be accepted unanimously when they go before the designated committee for discussion. The only detail where it appeared there might be differences of opinion concerned the proposal that signatories endeavor to eliminate exchange controls.

Mrs. Simpson To Meet Ex-King New Year's Eve

By ROBERT CHASSEUEL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CANNES, France, Dec. 14.—Looking forward to seeing former King Edward on New Year's Eve, Mrs. Wallis Simpson remained at the Villa Lou Viei today after holding several telephone conversations with the ex-king, who is now a guest of Baron Eugene Rothschild at the Castle Enzesfeld outside Vienna.

Word that Mrs. Simpson and the man who gave up the British throne for her had talked over the telephone came form an excellent source inside the villa where Mrs. Simpson is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Herman L. Rogers, of New York.

The length and time of the conversations could not be ascertained, however. Rogers at the same time, declared it "most unlikely" that Mrs. Simpson would take a house in France after Christmas.

EDWARD'S INCOME TO BE SET

Speculation On Sum Is Rife

Ex-King May Have To Undergo A "Means Test" Before Figure Is Fixed

EDWARD WEALTHY AS BRITISH KING

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Dec. 14—Britain's Capital buzzed with speculation regarding former King Edward's wealth following a suggestion he may have to undergo a "means test" before his state income is fixed, but whether he is a millionaire remained uncertain, since his financial affairs have always been a deep mystery.

At the beginning of his brief reign last January, he was described as the richest king Britain ever had, but at that time, his income included the vast revenues from the Duchies of Cornwall and Lancaster and other crown properties of which he was shorn by his act of abdication.

Had Huge Income

Edward's crown revenues previously were estimated to total at least a million pounds (about $5,000,000) a year. He also has been the ground landlord of his majesty's theatre, the Holborn restaurant, extremely valuable Pall Mall and Piccadilly blocks, mining rights in Wales and Scotland, rents from the Isle of Man and property at Windsor and other places.

But these are reported to be all crown property. The most probable source of his future income will be his ranch in Canada, which was recently reported sold, although this report was later denied.

Edward is also said to own a ranch in Argentina, a country to which he may eventually pay a visit.

The bulk of Queen Victoria's private fortune was inherited by Edward through Alexandra, but it amounts was never made public.

May Get Get $250,0000 Yearly

It is considered doubtful that Edward will receive anything through the will of his father, the late King George V. since this will reportedly names as beneficiary the "occupant of the throne"—George VI.

The London Sunday referee said the ex-king will be required to undergo a "means test" before the question of what income he will receive from the state is decided, and added it is believed he has quite a large personal fortune.

The present view of government circles, according to the referee, is that about $250,000 annually would be a proper amount for Edward.

Unusually Low Deer Kill This Year Explained

(International News Service)

OIL CITY, Pa., Dec. 14.—The unusually low deer kill this season—which ended Saturday—was attributed today to sub-zero weather at the opening of the season, which caused many bucks to shed their horns.

Many hunters complained about the few bucks and the many big does in the woods. The "big does" actually were bucks which had dropped their horns.

The unusual situation was noted about mid-season but no mention was made of it in fear hunters would slay does by mistake.

Tokyo, Dec. 14.—While Japanese officials accused Russia of aiding China's "war against Japan" rebels with arms and ammunition, Eiji Amau declared today this country will not jump into any Asiatic conflict "if it can be avoided."

The famous spokesman of the Tokyo foreign office said it was impossible to ascertain at present whether the rebellion in China would "precipitate an international conflict.

The far eastern scene—with Chinese premier and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, a captor of Marshal Chang Hseuh-Liang's revolting troops in Shensi province—was "most confusing," Amau said.

Authorities have declared they possessed evidence that the Soviet union has supplied guns and ammunition to the rebels led by Marshal Chang, who has issued a circular telegram calling for immediate declaration of war by China against Japan.

Accuse Soviet

They also charged that Soviet officers are extremely active as leaders in the military council of Marshal Chang, militant Manchurian war lord, who also demanded in his telegram that Chinese Communists be given place in China's Nationalist party set-up.

General Yen Hu-Cheng, head of Shensi province, said Japanese officials, has been encouraged by Moscow to open an anti-Japanese campaign, and this, they declared, influenced Marshal Chang to action.

Amau declared only meager reports and rumors regarding the Chinese revolt were reaching the Tokyo foreign office because Japan has no diplomatic representative in Shensi.

He said Japan would follow a wait and see policy. His prediction was borne out a short time later when foreign office, war office and naval representatives conferred and reaffirmed a policy of watchful waiting with regard to the Chinese crisis. Foreign Minister Arita and Navy Minister Nagano reported the situation to Emperor Hirohito.

The "young marshal" was ordered to wage a campaign against communists, but while he was supposed to be doing this, according to charges here, he in reality kept on excellent terms with them, finally demanding they be given a place in the nationalist party organization.

News Service Is Loser In Supreme Court Decision

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The supreme court today ruled that the Associated Press is not entitled to an injunction prohibiting Radio Station KVOS Inc., of Bellingham, Wash., from broadcasting its news taken from newspapers served by the agency.

A preliminary injunction granted by the ninth circuit court of appeals against the radio station was dissolved by the high court.

The high court's decision was based on the ground that it was not shown that $3,000 was involved. Under the law, damage to this amount must be shown for the federal courts to assume jurisdiction.

Justice Roberts read the opinion, which was unanimous.

The case was remanded to the federal district court in Washington with instructions to dismiss the case.

Drunken Driver Held For Court At Pittsburgh

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 14—Stephen Nowicki, 40 was held for court today under $2,500 bond on a charge of drunken driving after Judge Michael A. Musmanno rushed to a crash scene late in the night and held court proceedings in the street.

Within a half-hour after Nowicki's car had allegedly smashed into two others, Judge Musmanno appeared, and while officers lighted the scene with their flash-lights, took evidence from witnesses.

A large crowd witnessed the affair meeting on that occasion with those who are nearest and dearest. They will meet, it was learned, under circumstances which will be beyond criticism, probably at a house party in the Austrial Tyrol.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Simpson is facing the future calmly at the villa here reading and answering letters. When the weather is fine she strolls about the grounds.

It was announced the guard of French secret police detectives will remain at the villa until New Year's, corroborating belief Mrs. Simpson plans to remain here two weeks more. Scotland Yard detectives will probably leave tomorrow, although one or two men will be left behind.

It was not disclosed whether the guards are being partially maintained because of reports of threatening letters being received by Mrs. Simpson. Rogers last night flatly denied these reports.

This morning the villa was calm, and the army of reporters and photographers that followed Mrs. Simpson here is now rapidly dwindling

Puts End To Rumors

Cannes, France, Dec. 14.—In order to put an end to persistent rumors she has left Cannes to join former king Edward of England in Austrian exile, Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson emerged for a moment today from the villa Lou Viei, home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman L. Rogers of New York.

She declined to make a statement or give an interview and allowed reporters but a brief glimpse of her.

Mrs. Rogers was responsible for the American woman's appearance. Deluged with telegrams and telephone calls for confirmation or denial of the reports Mrs. Simpson had left, Mrs. Rogers conferred with her and then persuaded her to appear for a moment on the steps of the villa.

Mrs. Simpson smiled at the army of newpapermen and photographers and then withdrew into the house.

Comparing Edward's peaceful attitude with the sourness of dictators makes us forget that Mrs. Simpson hasn't a few sisters.

Junior Boys Frolic In First 'Y' Rally

The Young Men's Christian Association was thronged when more than 100 of the "Y's" new junior boys' clubs gathered for their first evening rally recently. Activities Director Henry T. MacNichols, and John Thompson, boys' work aide, handled arrangements.

The "Y" is developing a broad program of group activity for youths between 9 and 12 and older.

Technical Victory For Duke Power Co.

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The Duke Power Co., today won a technical victory in the supreme court in its fight to halt construction of a hydro-electric plant by Greenwood county, S. C., with a $2,852,000 loan and grant from the Federal Public Works Administration.

The high court, in reversing the decree of the fourth circuit court in which the New Deal won, did not decide the question of constitutionality of the $3,300,000,000 public works bond issue provisions of the National Industrial Recovery Act.

FAITH

THERE ARE MANY WAYS OF GIVING SERVICE:

Time and time again people who are brought to our wholesale showroom by their funeral director make remarks that cause us to feel that we are being repaid for the efforts we have put forth.

One lady living only thirty miles from New Castle told her funeral director that she would select the casket for her husband at the wholesale showroom in New Castle and nowhere else. Another one said: "I don't see how a city the size of New Castle can have an establishment like this. Another one said: "How much easier it was to select what we wanted from so large and up-to-date a stock." Another one said: "My, I never saw so many beautiful caskets in my life."

And this large show room, with from 35 to 40 different styles of caskets in, is open at all times to the legitimate funeral director and his patrons, where they can select whatever they want, and at no extra cost.

It also makes it possible for the funeral director to get rid of a large part of his overhead, by not having to invest his money in a large stock.

WE DO NOT LEND OR RENT OUR CHAIRS THEY ARE FOR FUNERAL WORK ONLY

HAVE YOU THE UTTERMOST FAITH IN YOUR FUNERAL DIRECTOR?

SPENCE-McCLINTOCK WEDDING PERFORMED

At 11:30 o'clock this morning, December 14, a wedding of interest to many was quietyl performed in the parlors of the First Christian church when Elizabeth A. Spence, daughter of Mrs. Elizabeth Spence, 24 East street, became the bride of Arch McClintock, son of Mrs. Marian McClintock, 715 County Line street.

The vows were exchanged in the presence of the immediate families, and a gathering of friends of the young couple, with the Rev. Merrill Cadwell, assistant pastor, officiating with the single ring service.

The bride was attractive in a smart gray wool tweed suit, trimmed wtih gray squirrel, and her accessories were carried out in coronation blue. A shoulder bouquet of Johanna Hill and Talisman roses completed her ensemble. She chose as her only attendant, her close girl friend, Miss Nellie Brown, who was attired in a wine colored street length dress with black accompaniments. Her shoulder corsage was of gardenias.

Harold Workman of this city served as best man.

Following the congratulatory period, a wedding breakfast was served at a prominent tea room with appointments being carried out in tones of pink and white. A large tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom, adorned the center, and other details were in keeping with the nuptial motif. Covers marked for 14

Immediately afterwards, Mr. and Mrs. McClintock departed on a motor trip to New York state and other points of interest. Upon their return they will reside at 24 East street.

Both the bride and groom are graduates of the New Castle high school, she being a member of the class of '35 and he with the class of '30. Mr. McClintock holds a responsible position with the Burckart Market in this city, and Mrs. McClintock is affiliated with the Jameson Memorial hospital offices.

Since the announcement of their engagement, a number of parties and showers have been given in honor of the bride. A collection of beautiful and serviceable gifts has been received by the couple, testifying to the esteem in which they are held.

KUS KUS KA CHAPTER MEETING INTERESTING

The December meeting of the Kus Kus Ka chapter, Daughters of the American Colonists, was held Friday in the home of the Misses Annah and Gevien Stevenson on North Beaver street. As the majority of the members of the society live in other cities and due to the inclement weather and illness of seven members, the attendance was confined to local associates, with the exception of Mrs. Morford Throckmorton of Beaver.

The meeting opened with the customary ritual, with the regent, Mrs. Throckmorton, presiding. Mrs. F. E. Sowersby acted as recording secretary in the absence of Mrs. S. B. Markley, who is seriously ill at her home in Beaver. Reports were given by various committees and Mrs. A. T. Eckles gave an interesting account of the "Old Covered Bridge at Edenburg" which held the close attention of everyone.

Yuletide decorations of holly and miniature Christmas trees added a charming note to the delicious luncheon served by the hostess at the appointed hour.

During the afternoon, the proclamation of Governor Earle announcing a state-wide commemoration of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States was read by Mrs. F. E. Sowersby.

Violin numbers by Mrs. Elsa Von Moltke Emery and the singing of Christmas carols by the members concluded this enjoyable meeting, the next to take place in February at Beaver Falls.

ELIZABETH BELL WEDS MICHAEL FOX

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Fox, she being the former Elizabeth Lillian Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bell, of the Youngstown-New Castle road, are resiiing for the present at his sister's home in Baltimore, Md., following their wedding which took place on November 29. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Fox, of the Youngstown road, and is located in Baltimore.

The ceremony was performed at the altar of the St. Paul Evangelical Lutheran church in Baltimore, with the Rev. Paul J. Mackensen officiating with the single ring ceremony. The couple was attended by Miss Madeline Horwess and Frank Kocs, Jr., nephew of the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Fox are both well known locally, the bride being a graduate of the local high school in the class of '32, and being employed by the Strouss-Hirshberg Company. The groom is also a graduate of the local high school in the class of '25 and attended Bethany College and Pitt University. He is affiliated with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation in Baltimore, where the couple are residing for the present, at the home of the groom's sister.

MISS NESBITT NAMES "SPRING" FOR WEDDING

"Spring" was revealed as the time for the wedding of Miss Barbara Nesbitt whose engagement was recently announced to Dr. George R. Cunningham, at the assembly of the Ye Towne club members held Saturday afternoon in the bride-clect's home on Leasure avenue.

She entertained at a prettily appointed luncheon-bridge, marking their usual bi-weekly affair, novel "three-in-one" place cards designating the names of the guests which concealed the news of the season when the wedding would take place and which too furnished bridge tallies, were found at each place. In addition, dainty Yule corsages of holly and pine cones were also used as markers, and taken home as mementos. When the group read the names of the engaged couple "Barbara and George—"Spring" enfolded inside the middle card, a period of excitement ensued. Other tones were in keeping with the holiday season.

After partaking of the delicious menu, the assembly surprised Miss Nesbitt with a shower of pretty hankies, the presentation being made by Mrs. Robert S. Gordon.

Bridge featured the remaining hours, with Mrs. Norman Lamb and Peggy Warner receiving the prizes.

Special guests of the afternoon included Miss Betty Glover and Miss Laura Post, and Mrs. Norman Lamb, the latter formerly of this city who will be remembered as Zelma Nesbitt, a resident of Sharon.

Mrs. Elmer Reiber will entertain the club in her home on West Moody avenue on December 26, their next regular event.

PEACE BY UNDERSTANDING

ALL European countries might well follow the example of the Scandinavian governments which have just observed the "First Day of the North." The occasion gave an opportunity for assurances of good will, mutual respect and sympathy. It was apparent that Denmark, Iceland, Sweden, Norway and Finland do not intend to become involved in military conflict of any kind.

In the Western Hemisphere, similar influences along the line of organized peace are being exerted by the Pan-American Union, which has for its aim the sustained development of friendly co-operation and sympathetic understanding.

When the leading powers of Europe and the Orient display a similar desire for international amity, world peace may come within reach of modern civilization. But so long as jealousy, envy and nationalistic hatred are dominant factors, war will remain a perennial threat.

LAURELS FOR SCIENCE

The Boston critic who remarked some time ago that pure science is delightfully futile now has something to ponder, something that emanates from no less a centre of enlightenment than the school of advanced research at Princeton.

Dr. Einstein, dropping for a moment the intricacies of relativity, has developed a photo-electric cell which automotically adjusts a camera so that the right exposure is obtained.

Now, a great many amateur photographers, ourselves included, will hail this as a supreme justification of scientific thinking.

If the venerable doctor now gives us an equally efficient means of disposing of used razor blades, cleaning pipes or keeping the press in trousers, the enemies of pure research will be put to flight in a most disconcerting and humiliating manner.

GUARD AGAINST FIRES

Once more it is necessary that the public be warned to take precautions against fire in the celebration of Christmas and at holiday entertainments where trees are used. These trees themselves are highly inflammable even when they are green. They are still more dangerous when dry. Most of them have been cut for several weeks.

Wax or tallow candles should not be used for lighting up the tree. Nor are they necessary in these days of incandescent electric bulbs. As a matter of course, cotton should not be used for trimming, nor for the whiskers or clothing of Kris Kingle. To be safe, use asbestos, powder mica and metal tinsel, rather than cotton or paper trimmings.

One fire department chief suggests that the clothing of Kris be sprayed with a solution of water-glass to make it partially fire-proof; that a fire extinguisher and a few pails of water be kept near at hand, also a rug or woolen cloth in which the victim of the blaze may be wrapped. In any event, for the next two weeks more than ordinary precautions against fire should be taken.

HURRY!

The old reasons for doing your Christmas shopping early are too well known to need repetition. It's unfair to already overworked clerks to wait until the last day to dash around to the stores for this and that and a dozen other things. It's being thoughtless of the overworked postal employes to wait until two days before Christmas to mail Christmas packages. It's easier on your nerves and disposition generally to do your shopping before the last, hectic days.

In fact, these reasons are so well known and have been blazoned so repetitiously upon the pages of newspapers for years that they are now regarded as hackneyed stuff and nobody pays any attention to them.

But there is a real reason this year to do your Christmas shopping as early as it still can be done, and it has nothing to do with sentiment or good fellowship. It is merely this: Christmas business, everywhere, has been so far ahead of all expectations that there may be difficulty later in getting what you desire.

In other words, some people are likely to do without the things they intended to buy because they waited too long. Don't be one of them.

GOOD NEWS FROM THE FIELD

There is continued reassurance in the periodic reports of J. Edgar Hoover on the Federal warfare against crime, particularly those phases covered by more recent legislation. These bulletins are invariably replete with solacing statistics, citing definite progress in reduction of crime by means of Federal enabling laws, and they surely have a disquieting effect upon other plotters.

The latest survey shows as recently stated that 171 persons have been convicted and sentenced to an aggregate of 2229 years in prison under the "Lindbergh Law," since this Federal anti-kidnapping statute became effective in June, 1932. In addition, there have been 33 life sentences, four executions, two lynchings, three suicides, six murders by associates and five men killed resisting arrest—all involving kidnappers alone.

In a previous communique, Hoover reminded that the G-Men secured 96.96 per cent convictions under all Federal laws during a three-month period—a success startlingly typical. His men halved robberies involving national or government-insured banks within three months under the 1934 law permitting this intervention. Their campaign against car thefts and racketeering across state lines is likewise uniformly victorious.

Scientists can now trace almost everything to its beginning except an idle rumor.

"Any woman can train herself to move slowly and gracefully." Except when the phone rings.

A free land is one where the citizen feels out of debt if he doesn't owe anybody but the government.

If only a great man could be aware of greatness in time to select a family that wouldn't embarrass him.

It's rather hard to understand just where Russia's military leaders get all their confidence. Surely it isn't from the past military history of Russia.

Mussolini maintains that war is man's natural bent and that it keeps the race alive. However, it doesn't seem likely that ten million cemetery crosses can be wrong.

The Long Farewell.
A New Title.
Money Enough.
Minor Items.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE FORMER KING EDWARD has bid farewell to England and England and the rest of the world bid farewell to the young man, who told his people:

"I have found it impossible to carry the heavy burden of responsibility without the help and support of the woman I love."

A good many men might say that, who do not realize it.

Whoever wrote, or helped to write that broadcast, it was a sincere, touching farewell to the world's highest position, and well done. There is no doubt that the young king inspired it.

TO MATCH the action of the English king it is necessary to go back to the Christian era to a heavy palace on the Nile, with Marc Antony telling Cleopatra he could not do without her. Even back there, no parallel case is found.

According to Ferrerro, accurate historian, Marc Antony did not give up anything; what he wanted from Cleopatra was not love but Egypt's stores of gold that he might finance a fight against powerful Caesar!

"The barge she sat in, like a burnish'd throne, Burn'd on the water; the poop was beaten gold."

There must have been more gold in a country able to build that barge.

The former king and emperor, now once more "Prince Edward" moves from the court circular, and the front page to the society column—a long move.

AT LEAST EDWARD'S future name has been settled. The title "Duke of Windsor" will be created and conferred upon him; if he marries Mrs. Simpson she will be "The Duchess of Windsor." Even so, if they ever come here, distracted hostesses will wonder about their precedence, compared with ambassadors, supreme court judges, United States senators, plain millionaires and others.

THE CORONATION will go on as planned, no change in the date, a comfort for London's merchants, no danger of England losing "one hun-

THIS ROBERTAYLOR BUSINESS

I'M BEGINNING to think I do not understand women.

I mean I do not understand them in the mass....Individually, I do well enough. That is, well enough for my fumbling purposes and peace of mind. I make the same stupid mistakes that the average male does, suffer as much afterwards, swear as earnestly to have a little sense hereafter. And when I don't understand, sometimes I have sense enough to keep my mouth shut.

But what I'm getting at, what puzzles me, what's I'm coming to eventually is this Robertaylor business.... What I CAN'T understand is how a young fellow like that, particularly Robert Taylor, can get so many millions of women everywhere in the land twittering and fluttering over him. That gets me! And I'll bet it gets Robert, too.

I saw him once at a football game. I mean I saw the back of his neck and it looked all right....The poor guy had to sit on the player's bench to get away from the hordes of young things that would have stared at him and cried for autographs or a smile or a kind word....He didn't even turn around once. Didn't dare, I guess.

I've spoken of this situation to a couple of young ladies. Sort of casually remarked, "What do you think of Robert Taylor?"....Each time I lit a bonfire in their eyes and they cried, "Oh he's the handsomest thing!"....So I talked of something else right away.

(You understand of course, that I'm not jealous. After all, I'm 41 and my hear is gray and my ears stick out and my nose is pointed and I perspire when I'm embarrassed and I never did have any devastating charm....So I'm taking a purely scientifically detached attitude toward young Mr. Taylor. (You understand that?"

From my point of view, he's just "a good looking guy." I've seen lots of other fellows that look just as handsome to me. And personally if I were a woman, I'd pick Henry Fonda or Gary Cooper....But somehow or other, it's Robert Taylor that catches the eye and makes the pulse beat like the dickens, and gets all the little girls writing for his picture and spending Saturday afternoons indoors ooh-ing and ahing.

So I give up....It's just one more thing that I don't understand..... What man does?

Mine shafts anywhere are welcome sights, but C. Allan Kelly thinks there's something especially wonderful about those in Hibbing, Minn.

Being interested in mining, he writes us, I took a stroll to one of the underground mines and was engaged in conversation with the engineer in the hoist house when three bells rang which was the signal from below to bring the skip to the surface. The engineer released the brake, opened up the controller of the huge electric hoist and the skip started on its way up. Curious to see the type of skip used. I walked over to the shaft house to await its arrival. I hung around for at least half an hour and still there was no sign of the skip despite the fact that the cable to which if was attached was coming up at a terrific speed.

At that point my patience was exhausted, but still curious I hurried back to the hoist house to find the controller wide open, the cable winding around the drum at a dizzy speed and the engineer fast asleep in his chair. With one leap I was on him, shaking him violently. Rubbing his eyes, he inquired sleepily, "Wha's a-matter, with you?"

"Matter!" I yelled excitedly. "Pull yourself together, man; do you want to pull that skip over the top of the shaft house?"

"Huh?" he grunted.

"Sure, over the top!" I shouted at him. "That's what it'll do if you don't stop it."

"Lemme, see, what day is this?"

"Why, Monday, of course," I replied wondering, "why?"

"Tha's all right, then," was the answer. "The skip won't arrive 'til Friday," and he promptly went back to sleep.

Every year trucks on the highways are getting bigger and bigger. The other day we ran into one which had two trailers and the whole smear was a hundred feet long if it was an inch. The streets are not big enough for them and it would take a ten acre field for some of them to turn around in.

It's about all a fellow can do these days to finance a stop at the gas station.

There is talk of making an entire new constitution of Pennsylvania. Some people are looking for a big job.

A friend of mine once asked what single sentence encountered in my reading had made the most profound impression on me. I quoted from Rousseau:

"The dead take to their graves in their clutched fingers only that which they have given away."

"You've got it wrong," said he, "The dead hold to their breasts in their clutched fingers—"

Neither of us could relocate the sentence. Perhaps we were both wrong. Take your choice.

Very often it is better to give people gifts at Christmas time such things as they need instead of what they want. Lots of people want things that are not good for them. Mind when we got a stick of candy and thought it was a great treat? Wow! Them was the bum days!

One of the things that should be put back in the Pennsylvania constitution is to make it compulsory for a voter to have a paid up tax receipt before he can vote. Those guys who are opposed to any kind of tax put that one over in Pennsylvania while Pinchot was governor.

DEAR Miss Markel—I have heard that a debutante being presented at an afternoon tea should wear evening clothes. Can this be correct? IN DOUBT.

Answer—Yes. Even at an afternoon tea (if it be formal) the debutante being presented should wear an informal evening dress. When she is introduced at a garden party or a very simple tea, she should wear an afternoon dress. Her mother, regardless of the formality of the tea, should wear an afternoon dress, as should the guests and those of the debutante's friends receiving with her.

Both mother and daughter should wear long white kid gloves at a formal debut given in either the afternoon or the evening.

Dear Miss Markel—My sister is to have a church wedding. She will have four bridesmaids and four ushers and a maid of honor. May she have two flower-girls? If so, where should they walk in the processional and recessional? BRIDE-TO-BE.

Answer—Flower-girls and pages are not now so frequently included in wedding parties as they were formerly. But if the bride so wishes, she may include them. The flower-girls should walk behind the maid-of-honor in the processional. In the recessional, they usually precede the bride and bridegroom, strewing flowers in their path as they go down the aisle.

New Alignments Against Germany.
Nazi Boomerangs Strike Back.
Japan Is Facing Trouble.

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Columnist

ONE DOES NOT HEAR SO MUCH lately of Germany's desire to fight the Soviet Union. The reason is clear. Czechoslovakia, through which Nazi troops would have to march, and which country has been looked upon as the next object of German aggression, has gathered to her side some formidable nations. Of course, she has Russia and France; but now, there are Poland and Rumania, too.

It seems that the majority of European countries fear Nazi Germany more than they fear the Soviet Union.

Nazi and Fascist aid to the rebels in Spain has acted as a boomerang. Small European nations have looked in horror, and in terror, at the carnage caused by the Fascist rebellion in Spain. They picture themselves as next, unless they draw together for mutual protection.

Mediation in Spain, proposed by Great Britain and France, now may be looked upon with relief by Germany and Italy. General Franco's failure to take Madrid has embarrassed Hitler and Mussolini.

ANOTHER BOOMERANG

The crisis over the king in Great Britain has obscured another Nazi boomerang. The German-Japanese "anti-communist" pact has aroused Great Britain, which sees in it a menace to British interests.

This is exactly what Fuhrer Hitler did not desire. He seeks rapprochement with Britain—to wedge Britain away from France, and to make British credit available to hard-pressed Germany.

Hitler now seems so eager to have the British government friendly to him that he forbade German newspapers to publish a word of the crisis over the king.

As a matter of fact, economic conditions in Germany and in Japan, as well as in Italy, are likely to bring about more serious repercussions than any outside communistic influence.

TROUBLE IN JAPAN?

Japan soon may find itself in serious straits. It is spending more millions than ever for armaments—as are other nations. Its taxes are higher than ever—but so are its deficits.

If there were some "results", the government need not worry. Instead, however, Japan's expansion by military efforts has not yet returned any dividends. And, added to all that, the Chinese Nanking government has shown unexpected resistance, in regard to the invasion of Suiyuan, Inner Mongolian province. This means that if Japan desires to continue her military expansion it will have to be on a still larger and more costly scale.

Furthermore, Japan may be so much concerned over communism because, beneath the surface, there may be considerable muttering by Japanese masses. China is said to swallow every nation that invades it—and, in this instance, a Chinese form of communism may be penetrating her would-be conquerors.

NEW YORK—Prof. Albert Einstein voices a complaint: "American pacifism is harming the cause of peace by strengthening the aversion of the American people against participation in foreign struggles and endeavors."

CHICAGO—Dr. Harold C. INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Admiral Hugh S. Rodman, U. S. N., retired, calls the man who advocates an adequate navy a patriot: "In spite of all the impractical pacifists to the contrary, the United States absolutely needs an adequate navy at all times, during peace as well as in time of war, and of sufficient strength to safeguard our interests under any conditions."

MINT FROM SHAKESPEARE'S GRAVE

A friend has sent me a bit of mint
"From the grave of Shakespeare"
so she wrote,
And I looked at the leaves with the dark green tint
And thought of the lines which I used to quote:

"Imperious Caesar, dead and turn'd
to clay,
Might stop a hole to keep the wind
away."
Now if this fragrant mint be grown
Above the couch where Shakespeare lies,
May not his fragment which I own
Be Shakespeare in a slenderer guise?

"Immortal Shakespeare, dead and turned to clay,
Might be the mint patch in my yard
today."

I met up with a bottle the other day, a bottle of champagne, if you will, and with a label on the bottle, "Paul Mason." Dec. 14, 1799—George Washington died at 67 because of his doctors! Present day knowledge of his ailment indicates that it probably would not have been mortal; the repeated bleeding to which his doctors submitted him was what made it fatal. Bleeding was a standard procedure in those days, "to get the germs out of the body"; the barbers used to do it.

Anyway, he left a fortune of $5,300,000, bigger than the estate of any of his successors, including Hoover, richest of recent presidents.

My New York
By James Aswell

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Dialogue at a Luncheon Table:

Tweedledum: Mr. A., why don't you use more pleasant material in your column? From time to time you tend to grow gloomy and attack such things as Parlor Pinks. Readers, I am sure, would prefer nothing but pleasantries.

Mr. A.: What do you mean by pleasant material?

Tweedledum: Why, I mean the type of material Joe Zilch, my favorite columnist, uses. All about the new cuts tailcoats are showing at the Stork Club this season and the aroma of a thin goblet of Armagnac just before rushing for the curtain at the Noel Coward show.

Mr. A.: Well, I am afraid most of my readers aren't sure what Armagnac is. I am not sure myself. What is it, by the way? And I thought you disapproved highly of Noel Coward.

Tweedledum: I do. To like Noel Coward is the mark of the third rate mind.

Mr. A.: But your wife likes him inordinately and got a huge kick out of his plays. Is her mind third rate?

Tweedledum: Of course she likes him. Women like him. Noel Coward is a woman's writer.

Tweedledeem: I agree. Noel Coward is a woman's writer. All he has ever composed is simply pleasant fluff, to appeal to women. No backbone. No Nobel Prize stature.

Tweedledum: I repeat, Mr. A., you ought to include more pleasant material in your column.

Mr. A.: I am always grateful for constructive criticism. Here is a pencil. Tell me how to spell Armagnac and what kind of a drink it is and I promise I shall plug it lustily.

Tweedledum: Well, er, A-R—You know, I can't understand what you see in Noel Coward.

Mr. A.: As I have said, his new set of plays is amusing and romantic and constantly entertaining. It is full of pleasant material. Never once do they stoop so low as to tweak the pink whiskers of the Envy Trust. Or give them a halo, either. Those are some of the reasons why I like them. The Coward plays, I mean, not the pink whiskers.

Tweedledee: Mr. A., you should go out and do colorful and engaging things. You should race in a sleigh with bells tinkling, to be the first to quaff bubbly fluid in the Casino in the Park, come snowfall. Joe Zilch, the columnist, does those things.

Mr. A.: But the Casino in the Park is only a memory. Not even Joe Zilch can any longer quaff its fifty cent coffee or rub brogans there with Jimmy Walker in a rhumba. What about a snowshoe race to the Fifth Avenue Child's, with a bottle of rare cane syrup around my neck for the first deck of flapjacks A. D.—meaning of course, After Diet. Would that do?

Tweedledum: No, that is too complicated. That is another mistake you make. Mentioning that you are on a diet. That is very vulgar. If you must refer to such matters, do it pleasantly. Joe Zilch would simply comment on how Jeeves, while peeling his tea-time grape, had asked him whether he intended to do the baths at Baden-Baden this year—with a significant tilt of the eyebrows.

Mr. A.: You are asking me to write like a Wodehouse character talks—an obvious impossibility for all but Wodehouse. By the way, do you really read Joe Zilch regularly?

Tweedledeem: Oh, no, I never read him. I can't stand his stuff. I like unpleasant items; that's my cross. But nonetheless, you will never reach the vast masses unless you devote yourself to pleasant chatter altogether.

Mr. A.: I'm impressed. Please tell me how to spell Armag—

Tweedledum: It's late. I really must be getting back to the office.

On Court House Hill

County Commissioners, sitting as a Board of Appeals, will hear Enon Valley and New Wilmington complaints tomorrow, December 15. On Wednesday, South New Castle, Volant and Wampum will be heard. This will finish up the boroughs, with the exception of Ellwood City, where the assessors have not yet completed their work.

It is said that an effort may be made at the coming session of the legislature to provide for permanent registration of voters in boroughs and townships. If this is done the voting lists would all be kept at the bureau of registration at the court house, the same as the city resigtration lists are now kept. There are usually fewer registration changes in the country than there are in the city.

There are twenty cases on the trial list for quarter sessions court which opened this morning. There are no murder cases, but there is one for involuntary manslaughter. There have been no homicide cases for several sessions of court. In most of the cases for trial the charges are drunken driving, aggravated assault and battery, and larceny. It is expected that a majority of the cases will be heard this week. Another jury has been summoned for next week.

Attention of those who may be tempted to forage for Christmas trees at this season of the year is called to a law passed in 1927 which imposes a fine of $25 on any one cutting trees or shrubs on private land without the consent of the owner. Half of the fines collected are to be turned over to the person supplying the information that leads to arrests. The worst culprits are those who cut trees used for ornamental purposes and those who steal from nurseries or from gardens where trees are being propagated for sale.

Will of the late Christopher C. Parkinson of this city, has been entered for probate at the register and recorder's office. Decedent leaves all his property to his wife, Jane Ann Parkinson. Mrs. Parkinson is named as executrix.

Although it is too soon to tell what the county tax millage will be for 1937, it is not believed that there will be any increase and possibly a decrease, depending upon total valuations as turned in by the county assessors. The total valuation will not be ascertained for several weeks yet. In many of the districts the valuations will be somewhat lower than those shown by the last tri-ennial assessment, and few will be any higher, but the changes will not be large in any event. Quite a number of taxpayers have taken advantage of the act under which they can pay their delinquent taxes less penalties and interest, over a five year period. There will be considerable money coming in from this source, and there is the possibility that the coming session of the legislature, will grant a further extension of the act, in which event, if employment keeps up, more delinquent taxes would be cleared up. In making up the annual budgets during the depression years, allowances have been made for taxes that would not likely be paid, but would in all pobability be filed. It is believed that these allowances can be materially reduced in the preparation of the 1937 budget.

AROUND CITY HALL

James L. Fink, director of finance, presided during councilmanic meeting today at the city hall, owing to the attendance of Mayor Charles E. McGrath at the Crime conference, this week at Harrisburg. It was not Fink's first time to occupy the chairmanship of council or to conduct police court. In the past, as police court judge, the finance director, followed the policies of Mayor McGrath in issuing sentences.

Before Mayor Charles E. McGrath departed for the state capital, he informed the writer that relative to wage increase requests, which council sent to committee of council, they would all be considered in council. This statement followed a visit to Councilman J. Myron Rice and the mayor by a delegation of firemen, who with police and street department employes, asked for increases from the present wage they receive.

WASHINGTON AT A GLANCE

O'Connor Doomed In Speakership

Failing To Aid New Deal Measures Brings Opposition Of President

PENNSYLVANIANS ARE FOR RAYBURN

Central Press
Washington Bureau
602 Times-Herald Bldg.

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—If a majority of the Democratic majority in the house of representatives prefers a northerner (Congressman John J. O'Connor of New York is the north's leading candidate) to a southerner (presumably Congressman Sam Rayburn of Texas) for its leadership, why doesn't it choose O'Connor?

Parenthetically, I spoke in an earlier article as to the fight being for the speakership. It really relates to the majority leadership, but the speakership is supposed to follow the leadership in due course.

O'CONNOR IN BAD GRACE

Well, O'Connor has offended the Roosevelt administration. It is not formally admitted, but it is well known.

As chairman of the house rules committee the New Yorker was in a position to prepare the way for certain legislation which the administration desired—and he did not do it. In fact, he is reputed to have opposed some of this legislation. Besides, he is a Tammany Democrat, and Tammany is not in any too good favor with the White House.

O'Connor's brother, who formerly was the president's law partner in New York, fought the bill to regulate utilities' holding companies, and O'Connor himself seemed unsympathetic. He has been termed anti-New Deal.

Consequently O'Connor has not had the support he may have expected otherwise.

Emphatically to the contrary, Vice President Garner (supposedly inspired by the administration) came back in good season from the Lone Star state to Washington to fight for Rayburn.

ADMINISTRATION'S WILL

Now, there are many Democratic representatives who, though perhaps they like O'Connor better than Rayburn, are more respectful of the administration than of anything or anyone else.

Hence, if they believe the administration to be pro-Rayburn (and Rayburn has been a 100 per cent pro-administrationist—a persistent fighter for the utilities holding company bill and other New Deal measures), they are pro-Rayburn for their leadership, regardless of their personal and sectional preferences. That naturally is immediately helpful to Rayburn and contrariwise to O'Connor.

Illustratively, Pennsylvania's 23 Democratic representatives held a caucus recently (there are 11 Republicans, who don't count) to determine whom they favor—O'Connor or Rayburn.

As northerners, they should have been pro-O'Connor. Instead they were 22 to 1 pro-Rayburn.

Why? Why, because, it is assumed, Pennsylvania's Democracy wants the administration's support of Governor George H. Earle for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1940.

INTRUDING?

All this angers the irreconcilable anti-Texans exceedingly.

They do not think that "Texas Jack" Garner, over in his senate wing of the capitol building, should have any voice in the selection of the Democratic house leader. They are all the more infuriated by the consideration that, as a veteran member of the house and its former speaker, before he became vice president, he DOES, despite them, possess a lot of influence.

Worse, they do not think the situation should be twisted to the advantage of Governor Earle of Pennsylvania. Still more, Senator Joseph F. Guffy of Pennsylvania attended the caucus of the Pennsylvania representatives, although a member of the upper house.

Which seems to imply, say the embattled anti-Texans, and anti-southerners in general, not only that the administration is trying to select the house majority's next leader, but that the senate (Garner and Guffey, is trying to transform itself into the "whole thing".

There's a deal more than will appear on the surface when congress meets and the fight in the house starts.

I expect to see Rayburn win.

It will look harmonious but it won't be.

Funny man! He dislikes those who don't remember his name; yet those who take pains to remember it usually have designs on his pocketbook.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

FAMILY IS UNTIDY

A worried Wisconsin mother writes:

'I would have no trouble doing my work if I did not first and always have to expend most of my energy in picking up after every other member of the family. My husband will pass remarks about the untidiness, yet he invariably leaves his work clothes parked in the kitchen, his hat on a lamp, other garments all over the bedroom, tobacco from one end of the place to the other, an invariably goes to bed after scattering two newspapers all over the floor and in every chair of the living room!

"When the children were four or five years old they were very dependable, while now I cannot rely on them for the simplest things. They are as untidy as their father, except worse in that they have so many more things to leave under foot.

"Now do you think I am requiring too much of these children to ask that they put their room and beds in order before going to school, wash and dry the supper dishes, be responsible for the tidiness of the home so far as their personal belongings are concerned, and properly wash, comb, brush teeth and dress themselves three times a day? They will not do any of these things unless told repeatedly and frequently. I have to send them back three or four times before the task is satisfactorily completed."

This mother also says she once had tuberculosis. No doubt she is nearly exhausted most of the time and that she nags a great deal.

Husband Main Problem

My answer: Your main problem is with your husband. Quietly announce to him that when his clothes are found lying around you will throw them into the basement or some other place inconvenient for him. Quit talking and complaining. Discipline yourself to let many things go, and to tolerate more untidiness.

What you expect of your children is not unreasonable, except that they shall dress three times a day. But since you are not getting results, why not pick out a few things and center on them? For each offense assign an effectual penalty, such as having to sit in a chair doing nothing for about 20 minutes as measured by the clock. When you must send a child back to wash himself, or to do some job over, show no anger. Act as unemotional as a robot. Merely let him know that he cannot get away without measuring up. Try to have more good times with the family, especially at mealtimes. Let things go and rest more.

Mrs. Paul Osborne, proved a pleasing hostess, when she entertained the social hour club at her home on Thursday. At noon a delicious tureen dinner was served by the hostess and her aides Mrs. Russell Ligo and Mrs. Lyle Garner.

Mrs. William Angell received word Monday that her son William, had been killed Sunday night in Detroit, Mich., where he had been employed driving a taxi. While driving Sunday night, his car skidded and upset, killing him instantly. Funeral services were held at the home of his mother or Thursday at 2 p. m., followed by interment in Hoagland cemetery. He is survived by his mother and sister, Leah, and a half-brother. The sympathy of their many friends is extended to Mrs Angell and family, in their sad bereavement.

"I Was Nervous, Weak, Had Headaches, Lost Weight"

READ HOW MRS. CESIDIO POLSINELLI FOUND RELIEF

"About two years ago I started to lose weight, get headaches every day, feel weak and nervous. When I was only 16 years of age I began doing housework for a family of six. I also had 10 rooms to clean each day, cook all meals and take care of 4 children. I worked there for 3 years, ten to twelve and sixteen hours a day sometimes. I guess that was too much for me. When I left there I did housework again. This time there were no children but I had 16 rooms to clean and cooked all meals. This was worse than the other place because I had to work much harder regardless of how I felt. I couldn't sleep at night, but I had to work all the same.

This year, January 26 I got married and of course I was all run down. My sister said I should try your medicine and it has helped me. Now I have no more headaches or colds and my eyes don't blur as they often did."

Mrs. Cesidio Polsinelli,
716 Easter Avenue, Akron, Ohio.

"IT BUILT ME UP"

"I am 44 years old. I saw your ad in Comfort Magazine and I took the Vegetable Compound because I was rundown. It built me up and gave me more pep. My nerves are better, I sleep well and feel much better than I did. I recommend this medicine at every opportunity."

Mrs. J. W. Spillers,
R. No. 3, Downsville, La.

If you are nervous, tired, run down and cross, why don't you try this medicine and find out for yourself how good it is? All drug stores sell it. Liquid or Tablets, as you prefer.

Tank Of Molten Glass Bursts At Arnold Factory

Plant Will Be Closed For Possibly Two Months, Eleven Hundred Tons Of Molten Glass Lost

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 14.—Operations were suspended today at the Arnold plant of the American Window Glass Company as more than a thousand tons of molten glass which burst from a huge tank over the week-end congealed into a hot crystal lake in the factory basement.

More than a month will be required before the glass will have cooled enough to be removed, company officials said, with all work at the plant postponed for possibly two months.

No One Injured

No one was injured when the lava-like mass flowed through a sidewall of the tank after it was believed the glass had eaten its way through a lining of the vat, 300 feet long and five feet deep.

Eleven hundred tons of the molten glass was estimated to have poured through an opening two feet wide before firemen, spraying the leak with 12 hoses, cooled the escaping glass sufficiently to halt the flow.

Investigations were under way to determine whether the boiling liquid damaged the building's foundations.

All of the glass will be reclaimed, company officials said, but meanwhile, approximately 250 men will be thrown out of work.

ishly and gave very wonderful dinners to his friends. Upon the occasion brought to mind, he was entertaining in his usual manner about one dozen gentlemen of New Castle and among them was one who believed he knew more than the rest of us about the detail of a fine dinner and he said to the host: "You entertain beautifully; your dinners are gorgeous, but why do you serve California champagne? I have noticed you always do. You must know that French champaigne is much superior to any champagne made in America. Their vineyards are finer; their vinters know more about the making of champagne."

The host replied, by asking the question: "You feel that you are perfectly able to tell the difference between a French and a California champagne?"

"Certainly," replied the critic.

"Very well, I have here two bottles of champagne that have not been opened, one is a French champagne, known as 'Paul Roget,' the other a bottle of California champagne, known as 'Paul Mason.' I will make a little wager of $5.00 with you that if you will step out of the room for a moment and allow me to pour a wine glass of champagne from the California bottle and another wine glass from the French bottle, that you cannot tell me when you return which is the French and which is the California champagne."

The wager was made then and there. The critic stepped out of the room. Our host opened each of the bottles and while we looked on, poured out two glasses from the "Paul Roget" bottle and drank them. He then filled each of the glasses from the "Paul Mason" bottle and called the critic back. This gentleman very gracefully raised first one glass to his lips, sniffing the bouquet first, tasted it and repeated the same performance with the second glass, and setting the second glass down, he raised the first glass and said: "There is no question about it; this is the French champagne, this is the "Paul Roget.'"

Quick as a flash, our host said: "You win. I don't know how you did it."

The rest of us sensed the situation and said nothing. The very much satisfied gentleman sat down with an air of having accomplished much and to this day I think he has never been told the truth of that incident, but no one thereafter who knew of it ever paid much regard to his opinions regarding the manner of serving dinners.

There is another story connected with "Paul Mason" champagne which might have explained how hard it was for the gentleman to have determined which was "Paul Mason" and which was "Paul Roget."

The Santa Clara Winery at San Jose is a famous one in California and they long ago desired to grow a champagne grape in the Santa Clara hills and make champagne that was worthy of the State of California. They persuaded a young man employed as a vinter in the "Paul Roget Winery" of France to come to California and see what he could do. He came and for many years that man superintended the vineyard and the winery of the California Company. That man died last year at the age of eighty-four years, but those who love the grape in California and in a considerable part of these United States, swear by "Paul Mason."

With his throne, Prince Edward abandons a huge royal income, running into millions, with "civil list" and other allowances.

But he will have enough, his private fortune left him by royal relatives and others, is said to be considerable. He will be able to afford a small sized yacht, good airplane first class automobile, one of each is enough.

INTELLIGENT Dr. Craster, health officer of Newark, N. J., starts a needed campaign against kissing babies, suggesting the use of bibs embroidered with these words:

MR. AUSTIN, director of the census, says women hide their ages; young women especially strain a point to keep on the sunny side of 25, because "after that comes the old maid" period.

Fortunately, it makes little difference except to insurance companies, and scientists interested in biological statistics.

MAGNETIC POWER that turns the needle to the north is measured in units called "gauss," in honor of the German mathematician Karl Friederich Gauss, who more than 125 years ago, introduced to the world his "transcendental arithmetic," written in Latin to make it harder, called disquistiones arithmeticae.

THE LEARNED GAUSS, who studied the magnetism of the earth, would be interested in a new dwarf magnet, eight inches long, six inches wide, three times as powerful as former magnets weighing 85 tons each.

Our "terrestrial magnetism" has a power less than one fifth of one gauss; whereas this dwarf magnet will produce a magnetic field of 120,000 gauss, as against 50,000 for the giant magnet.

THE NEW MAGNET which will use a current of 12,000 amperes will be used to smash the atom. What scientists will do with the atom when they smash it, how they will harness the fearful power inside the atom nobody knows. The dwarf magnet will be important 100,000 years hence when nobody will care who won the big prize fight or baseball game. Then the future Queen Mary may cross the ocean with the atomic power extracted from one drop of oil.

A PHOTOGRAPH of President Roosevelt starting for South America on the 10,000 ton cruiser Indianapolis shows the President high up on deck, waving his soft hat; above him you see one of four planes carried by the Indianapolis as auxiliaries.

Woodrow Wilson went to Europe in 1917 and 1918, waving a stovepipe hat from the battleship deck with no airplane in sight.

SOME DAY a President will go off, waving his hat from the deck of a giant airplane, able to go twice around the world without stopping, carrying, suspended below it, a couple of 500 mile-an-hour speed planes and a lifeboat.

Numerous Accidents On City Streets Reported Over Week End

SEVERAL PERSONS ARE INJURED

Mike Cimeno, Ellwood City, R. D. 6, reported to city police that he was driving his auto Sunday afternoon on County Line street near Vine street, and to avoid an accident with a car which Cimeno claims took most of the road, he was forced to skid his car which over-turned. The accident resulted in injuries to Joey Iorio, R. D. 6, who was thrown through the winshield. Iorio was treated for lacerations of the head by a physician.

Millionaires Pay $41,499,000 Income Taxes For Year 1935

Tiny Handful Of Millionaires Pay Nearly As Much As 3,990,000 Other People

Study Of Income Taxes Shows Gradual Acceleration Of Economic Recovery

By ERIC FRIEDHEIM
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—A tiny handful of millionaires today was shown to have paid federal income levies last year that nearly equalled the combined tax payments of more than 3,990,000 persons.

In a preliminary study of 1935 tax returns, the treasury reported that 41 persons with net incomes of $1,000,000 or more were assessed $41,499,000.

Net Incomes Enormous.

While identity of the large taxpayers was kept secret, the treasury revealed their net income last year approximated $73,000,000. On these earnings the government imposed a 59 per cent surtax in addition to the normal four percent income levy.

From 3,992,627 persons, whose income was $5,000 and under, the government collected only $44,763,000. The net earnings of this group amounted to $8,714,000,000 last year.

Altogether, $654,116,000 poured into treasury from individual earnings in 1935. The so-called millionaire group contributed 6.3 per cent of the total and the low-income class 6.8 per cent.

The study disclosed that persons within the $50,000 to $100,000 income bracket furnished more tax revenue than any other income class. The tax yield from this group amounted to $110,000,000. Last year 7,878 persons had incomes within this bracket, including President Roosevelt, who received $75,000 from the government as salary.

Many In Million Class.

The largest single tax return filed in 1935 reported net income of between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000. Seven persons reported incomes of between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000, two between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000, eight between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000 and 23 between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000.

Although 4,473,426 individuals filed income tax returns last year only 2,067,736 were taxable.

The average net income for all returns filed was estimated at $3,276 and the average tax liability $146. Average net income for the previous year was $3,125.

Economic Recovery.

Membership in the millionaire's bracket showed an increaese in 1935. During 1934 only 33 persons had incomes of $1,000,000 or more. This exclusive circle had 513 members in 1929. By 1932 there were only 20.

The study also noted a gradual acceleration of economic recovery during the past four years. Last year the net income of all persons filing tax returns amounted to $14,656,000,000. Net income in 1934 was $12.796,000,000; 1933, $11,008,000,000, and 1932, $11,655,000,000. Greatest net income was registered in 1924 with $25,656,000,000.

Fourteen Injured In Strike Disorder

(International News Service)

READING, Pa., Dec. 14.—Fourteen persons were injured, three others were arrested and several automobiles were damaged today when violence broke out anew in the 11-weeks-old strike at the Berkshire Knitting mills in Suburban Wyomissing.

State police joined West Reading and Wyomissing police in quelling the riot with tear gas bombs. The disorder flared into wild violence, reminiscent of the riot on the first day of the strike when one man was beaten fatally, as non-striking workers attempted to pass a picket line in front of the main gate of the plant.

Among those injured by stones, bricks and other missiles was Police Chief Benjamin Widson of Wyomissing. No one was hurt seriously, police said. The arrested trio included two women. They are charged with assault and battery and inciting to riot.

NEW BRITISH KING OBSERVES HIS BIRTHDAY

vival, and after his address was finished there were many predictions that England would see a revival of the trend toward "Puritanism" and victorianism.

Indicating the church intends a moral drive against night clubs, life, luxurious social parties and easy divorce as a result of Edward's abdication, the archbishop said:

"Last week, Edward VIII, after speaking his last words to his people, left Windsor Castle, the center of all the splendid traditions of his ancestors and throne, and went out into exile.

"In darkness he left those shores. With characteristic frankness he told us his motive. It was a craving for private happiness.

"Strange it is that for such motives X X X he should have disappointed hopes so high and abandoned a trust so great.

Stand Rebuked

"Even stranger it is that he should have sought his happiness in a manner inconsistent with Christian principles of marriage and within social circles whose standards and ways of life are alien to all the best instincts and traditions of his people.

"Let those who belong to that circle know today that they stand rebuked by the judgment of the British people."

Then, calling attention to Edward's services to England "both at home and across the sea," the archbishop declared:

"It is the remembrance of these things that wrings from our heart the cry:

"The pity of it the pity of it.'

Then, after eulogizing the new king, the archbishop called for a revival of religion when he said:

"My desire is, if God will help me, to make to the nation a somewhat solemn recall to religion. Who can doubt that in all the events of these memorable days God has been speaking? X X X.

"We are all rallying to our new king. Will there not be a rally also to the kings of Kings?"

FORMER KING EDWARD IS GUEST IN BARON'S CASTLE

during the train trip Edward spent most of the time in his compartment thinking. He read but little and appeared highly strung and nervous.

Members of his party said Edward may remain at the castle for several days, perhaps a week or more, and then may visit Archduke Anton and Archduchess Ileana of Hapsburg at their castle in lower Austria.

Prince Paul also invited him to stay at one of his castles in Jugoslavia. Edward is said to have told his aides he might make a short visit to Budapest.

Gendarmes On Guard

Gendarmes with fixed bayonets were still on duty today at all entrances to the castle Enzesfelt with strict orders not to allow anyone to enter the castle grounds and to arrest immediately any uninvited visitors.

The castle where Edward is spending the first part of his exile is a magnificent "hunting lodge" of 40 rooms, staffed with 20 servants. It is situated in grounds which cover nearly 15 square miles. It has an excellent golf course over which Edward played three months ago.

Baron Eugene Rothschild's wife, was formerly Countess Schoenborn, nee Katherine Wolff of Philadelphia, a famous beauty.

The baron waited four years to marry her after she and the count were divorced by mutual petition, which is permitted by Austrian law.

The baroness, smartly slim, is considered one of Austria's best dressed women.

EDENBURG VIADUCT INFORMALLY OPENED

man of the day. In his opening remarks Judge Braham reminded the crowd of the long service of the old covered bridge but said that modern traffic demanded a modren structure over the Mahoning and the railroads. He then introduced former State Senator George T. Weingartner, who gave a brief history of the Benjamin Franklin highway and the work in getting the viaduct.

The highway was placed on the state system in 1925, he said, following the formation of the Benjamin Franklin Highway association. In 1930 the New Castle Motor club filed a formal complaint before the Public Service Commission asking that the old bridge be removed and a viaduct put in its place. At that time C. H. Young of New Castle was a member of the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission and assisted in the task of getting the case placed before the commission.

Major F. J. Fitzpatrick of the United States army engineer corps represented the Federal government on the program but did not speak. Arthur Miller, president of the Holmes Construction company, the company that built the viaduct, spoke next and thanked the men who had worked on the structure and highway for their loyalty and efficiency. He said the Holmes company was proud to have been selected for the task and was proud of the job it had done in record time.

Senator W. J. Eroe, Jr.

State Senator William J. Eroe, Jr., said the viaduct did three things—saved lives, expedites traffic and provided work for the unemployed. He promised what aid he could give towards getting more highway improvements for this county.

Norman Lawrence, superintendent of the E. & A. division of the Pennsylvania railroad, said that his company was pleased to cooperate in the improvement. He was followed by J. W. Purdy, division engineer of the Akron-Chicago division of the B. & O. Mr. Purdy spoke along similar lines. George H. Burnette of the P. & L. E. could not be present but sent his regrets through L. H. Balph of the same company. L. B. Round, vice president and general manager of the Pennsylvania Power company, said his company was always ready to cooperate with the county and state towards improving conditions.

George Mahaney of Sharpsville, president of the Northeastern Ohio and Western Pennsylvania regional planning commission said that the improvement was one that his organization had hoped would be built for a long time. He congratulated the county upon getting it. The American Legion band followed Mr. Mahaney.

H. H. Temple

Henry H. Temple, chief engineer of the Pennsylvania Department of Highways then presented the viaduct to the people of the county in an address that contained far more than platitudes. Mr. Temple said that it was the plan of the highway department to improve the remaining three miles of highway through the Hillsville district. This improvement Mr. Temple said would come sometime next summer if the present plans materialized.

He reviewed the work of the highway department in its task of keeping the highways open last winter and said that the maintenance cost was terrific. He reminisced somewhat upon his service here as superintendent of the B. & O. railroad and said that he was pleased to be able to return to the scene of his former activities.

Accepts Viaduct

County Solicitor William McElwee, Jr., acting for the county commissioners, sponsoring body of the opening, then accepted the viaduct for the county commissioners. R. W. Bolsinger, former president of the New Castle Motor Club accepted it for the motorists in behalf of State President S. Edward Gable, detained by illness. Prsident L. G. Genkinger of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce accepted it for citizens of the county and concluded his remarks by breaking a bottle of champagne over the steelwork. Rev. H. A. McCurdy, pastor of the Epworth M. E. church concluded the speaking program with the benediction.

Little Miss Donna Parks of Edenburg and Angeline Carna of Hillsville then snipped the bright red ribbon that had served as a barricade, the band played and the viaduct was opened.

Motorcade Starts

Immediately the motorcade formed and for the next forty-five minutes the viaduct saw hundreds of automobiles cross it.

Old timers of Edenburg were present in considerable numbers, headed by H. G. Coates of the Seventh ward and were among the first to ride over the new span.

The day was an auspicious one for the motoring public for the viaduct and highway expedite traffic through the county and mark the next to last improvement on the Benjamin Franklin highway in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana. The last improvement needed is the three miles of highway through the Hillsville district and this will probably be completed next year.

The program Saturday went off smoothly and the crowd exceeded any estimate of the county commissioners or friends of the cause of good highways. The chairman of the reception committee was Fred L. Rentz, with George T. Weingartner and John B. Shaw as vice chairmen. Ray Hall was chairman of the transportation committee and Ivor V. Davis, chairman of the music committee.

Baptist Vesper Services Draws Capacity Crowd

Special Music By Garth Edmundson Thrills Audience Numbering Over 400

A record breaking attendance numbering over four-hundred, thronged the auditorium of the First Baptist church Sunday afternoon to attend the impressive vesper services conducted annually by members of the World Wide Guild, No. 2404, which began at 4 o'clock. Chairman in charge, included Mary Brown and Pearl Hockenberry.

An impressive candle lighting service was conducted, and adding further to the touching features of the occasion, was a program of special organ music contributed by New Castle's own Garth Edmundson, talented musician who has gained much recognition in the music world. He thrilled the assemblage with several of his own compositions, and many residents took advantage of this opportunity and witnessed the occasion.

Of special interest, was the decorative setting which enhanced the colorful ceremonies. Several treasured vases, each numbering 125 years or more old, and the property of Miss Edith Cleveland, outlined the chancel, filled with choice flowers of the season. This arrangement was worked out by a committee of three; composed of Geraldine McClelland, John McClelland and Edna Emminger.

Plan Luncheon For Junior Kiwanians In Holiday Period

Kiwanis Club Invites 34 Young Men To Program On December 23

Thirty-four Junior Kiwanians of the New Castle Kiwanis club have been extended an invitation to attend the special "Junior Kiwanis Day" luncheon of the local club at The Castleton on Wednesday, December 23, it was announced today.

The holiday affair will bring together all those young men who have at some time or other been Junior Kiwanians for a three-month period. The young Kiwanians are selected Senior high students, but many, of course, are college students today.

Secretary L. C. Mantz of Kiwanis said today that the junior movement was inaugurated four years and three months ago. Harold Dickson and Robert Lennig became the first two young members in October of 1932, and Robert Cole and Donald Lurk are the two serving at the present time.

An appropriate program is planned for the day.

Kiwanis is also making plans for its annual Christmas treat for the children of the Margaret L. Henry Children's home on Friendship street. Fred C. Wolford is chairman of the committee arranging this year's event, the date for which has been tentatively set for December 28.

Electoral College Delegates To Get Very Slim Wages

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 14.—Unlike Pennsylvania's $100-a-day legislators of the recent special session, today's members of the electoral college meeting here stand to collect $3 per diem wage and traveling expenses.

The 1935 legislature appropriated $1,000 for expenses of the college. Electors get $3 plus $3 for each additional day spent traveling to or from the meeting, and three cents a mile travel allowance.

One day's salary of all the legislators at the last session cost the commonwealth $25,800; the 36 electoral college members today will collect a total of $108.

Discuss Gambling At Trinity Church

Gambling, what is it? Which is it, right or wrong? What forms does gambling take? What is the difference between adventure and gambling? These are some of the questions which provoked such a lively discussion at the meeting of the Young People's Fellowship in Trinity church Guild room last evening that it has been decided to continue it next Sunday at 6:30 o'clock.

The sermon at the service following on the Letters to the Seven Churches, in the book of Revelation preached by the rector, the Rev Philip C. Pearson, brought several requests that it be repeated to a morning congregation in the church, because it unfolded points from the Bible not appreciated before and made known God's desire for Christians today.

CALL MISSION DIRECTORS

Organized Crime Should Be Fought By Every Citizen

Must Devise Plan To Prevent Organized Crime From Disorganizing Society

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 14.—Society must gird itself to combat organized crime by enacting suitable and "modern" statutes, Charles F. Kelley, district attorney of Philadelphia county urged today.

"The real and vital problem that confronts local and state enforcement agencies," he told the delegates to the Pennsylvania Crime Conference, "is to devise a plan of attack that will prevent 'organized crime from disorganizing society.'"

Kelley said society at present is witnessing a period of transition and that "the methods and principles underlying our criminal code of law and procedure are being challenged on many sides."

"The civil law has endeavored to keep abreast with the ingenuity of legitimate business transactions while the criminal law has valiantly tried to make nineteenth century methods fit twentieth century conditions," he said. "There can be no true economic and moral prosperity as long as illegal combinations remain unchecked, and thereby disturb an otherwise well-organized society."

Challenge Society.

"Crime syndicates" are one of the greatest enemies that challenge the prosperity of civilization's social well being, he declared.

Kelley, who discussed crime from the district attorney's point of view, urged the following reforms be made on Pennsylvania's statute books:

1. Reclassification of felonies and misdemeanors "which will eliminate confusion in the mind of the bar and remove the anomaly of some misdemeanors carrying a greater penalty than felonies".
2. "A uniform practice respecting the release in bail of defendants."
3. Revision of "some phases of criminal pleading." He suggested the adoption of the short form of indictments.
4. Revision of trial procedure.
5. ". . . Establishment of a separate criminal court or courts in industrialized counties."

Rotarians Hear Judge Braham

Speaks At Noon Meeting On "The New Paganism"—Ladies' Night Planned

Chancellor Adolph Mitler's "gospel of power" in Germany—"the new paganism"—was vigorously assailed by Judge W. Walter Braham in a scholarly address before the weekly luncheon meeting of the Rotary club at The Castleton today.

"It is the folly of believing that you are all right and that everybody else is all wrong," Judge Braham declared. "The only thing that can save us in this modern day is the truth, and it's a discouraging thing to see this magnificent race, our kindred race deluded."

The judge's indictment of Hitler's ways followed a brilliant discourse which reviewed the glorious background of the German people.

Turning all praise to the church people of Germany, Catholics and Protestants alike, the judge asserted "that they have stood up against all their leader's policies" and he added that "the hope of the world is that the folly will become apparent and that Germany as a nation will go forward."

Presiding at today's meeting was Richard Rentz, the club's youngest member, who filled President Ray S. Tannehill's place. Tannehill was absent.

Rotary plans to hold a Ladies' Night dinner program on the night of Tuesday, December 29. It will take place at The Castleton. The usual Monday noon meeting will take place that week.

Guests of the club were Dr. W. H. Shields, Ellwood City, and C. Edward Bender and Clark Oglevee, both of Columbiana, O.

EFFICIENT

Mary, in her first situation listened intently to her mistress' instructions.

"And always remember to change the serviettes" she was told. "Don't give the guests the same ones they had for breakfast. Understand?"

Mary nodded.

After dinner the girl was summoned by an angry mistress.

"I thought I distinctly told you to change the serviettes" she snapped. "The guests had those that that were used at breakfast."

"Oh, no ma'am" asserted Mary. "They didn't have the same ones. After breakfast I gathered them all up and shuffled them well, and gave the guests a different one each."

Mail Carrying Bids Are Asked

Contract For Railroad Station To Post Office Mail Hauls To Be Awarded In 1937

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
(Special Washington Correspondent. New Castle News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 14.—Post Office Department officials are hopeful they will be able to renew the contract for carrying mail between New Castle's post office and railroad stations for no more than they have been paying over the past four years—$4,700 annually.

The contract for transferring the mail is awarded to a private operator. The present contract expires June 31, 1937. The new contract will commence July 1, 1937 and run over a four year period.

The Post Office Department has already called for bids on the new contract. The department says the successful bidder will likely be required to provide three one ton pannel or screen body trucks. Bids will be received until 4:30 p. m., February 10.

The new contractor will be called upon to carry mail on the following trips weekly: 53 from the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie station to the post office and 53 from the post office to the station; 40 from the Baltimore & Ohio station to the post office and 40 from the post office to the station; 19 from the Pennsylvania station to the post office and 19 from the post office to the station; six from the B. & O. station to the Pennsylvania station, and six from the Pennsylvania to the P. & L. E. station.

The Post Office Department expects to award the contract for the next four years on or before March 12, 1937.

President Will Be Back In Washington By Tomorrow Night

TRIP COVERED OVER 12,000 MILES

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ABOARD U. S. S. CHESTER, At Sea, Dec. 14.—Cutting across the Gulf stream on a direct route from the Bahamas to Charleston, S. C., President Roosevelt today was approaching the end of his historic South American cruise which will have covered, by tomorrow, 12,260 miles with 22 days spent at sea and six in port.

Rested and invigorated, the president will be back in Washington tomorrow night to prepare for the opening of congress and his inauguration for his second term. Many important vacancies in government posts are to be filled.

Death Mars Trip

The trip was marred only by the death of "Gus" Gennerich, the president's body guard, for whom White House services will be held Wednesday morning following which the president's son, James, will take the body to New York for burial.

President Roosevelt plans to wait his return to Washington before reducing to paper his forthcoming message to congress. He also must make final decisions regarding the budget.

The crews of the cruiser Indianapolis, which carried President Roosevelt to and from Buenos Aires and the destroyers Chester and Phelps are expected to change from white to blue uniforms this afternoon as northern waters are approached. Meanwhile, the sea is remaining quiet.

Geneva College Reserves Here Tuesday Night

Coach Newton's Ellwood High Quintet Out For Second Straight Victory

ELLWOOD CITY, Dec. 14.—Ellwood City high cagers will be out for their second straight victory Tuesday night at Lincoln gym when the Geneva College Reserves invade this city.

The performance of Coach Jerry Newton's initial quintet at Ellwood high has caught the eye of local followers. Despite Coach Newton's pessimism as to the small size of his players, the fans are of the opinion that he has the makings of a winning combination. They showed up remarkably well in their first two games with the Carnegie Tech Plebes and the Westminster Freshmen here last week. There was a decided improvement in the second game, and if they proceed to do so at the same rate Ellwood will be a real threat to their Section 3 rivals.

Out of the varsity of eleven players eight of them are having a merry battle for starting positions, although all have played to date. Only Captain Elmer Hauserman at forward and George Ungham at guard have got the starting call for the games to date. There is keen competition for the forward post between Joe Greco and Laird Daubenspeck, for center between Jim Flanagan and Chester Mack, and for the other guard between Mike Stasick and Gilbert Carlin, Tommy Jones, forward, Joe Pishioneri and Herman Berendt, guards, are making it an altogether merry chase all around. In the two games played to date Coach Newton has substituted freely and often.

The preliminary game tomorrow will begin at 7 p. m. with the main game scheduled for 8 o'clock.

Osterhouse favored with a vocal solo, "Open the Gates of the Temple." Mrs. James Moyer gave a reading "Smiling Through." The scripture was given by Margaret Barton.

It was announced that the annual Loyalty Luncheon will be held on January 14 at the First Presbyterian church of New Castle. All donations to the Christmas basket are to be left to Mrs. Lydia Douds at the store of B. D. Turner on Fifth street. The organization also voted a donation to the Week Day Bible school. Boak Returns From Altoona

Lawrence County Man To Start Third Term As State Grange Master

STEADY PROGRESS CERTAIN FOR GRANGE

Home from Altoona to start another two-year term as its leader, Master J. Audley Boak of the Pennsylvania state grange, a resident of Slippery Rock township, predicted a banner year for the grange organization.

Master Boak, inaugurating his third term in the state grange's highest office, declared:

"Our grange faces 1937 with the approval of the conservative policies it has advocated in the past. The organization is growing."

At Altoona last Thursday Mr. Boak was returned to the leadership post for the two-year period by delegates attending the annual state convention. Mr. Boak said the Altoona hosts were "grand".

Twenty-six Lawrence county grange representatives attended, Mr. Boak said.

Social security, the state master reported upon his return with Mrs. Boak, was one point touched in his annual address to the grangers. He discussed it along with other grange interests and today, in referring to that portion of his address before the assemblage, said that "if we have legislation for one kind, we must have it for all."

Before the Altoona convention Mr. Boak, giving attention to social security, asserted:

"Scarcely, if ever, have we known a storm to engulf itself in the American vocabulary as has that of social security. Possibly it has been over-worked, but be that as it may, social security is a problem that must be reckoned with. No doubt many social injustices exist which must be corrected, but we are convinced that hasty legislation has fallen far short of the proper solution of the problem. Possibly old age pension and unemployment insurance are necessary, but we demand that they be applicable to all or none. We do not object to the worthy aged being pensioned, but if those who have spent their lives in riotous living are to be pensioned, we demand that all be pensioned. Regardless of the kind of law, the consumer will pay the pension.

"We can see no reason why unemployment insurance should be confined to those who work in groups of eight or more and who have been engaged in certain employment, while those who work in smaller groups or at other certain tasks are excluded. This would no doubt make it more difficult to secure help on the farm or any labor that is not covered by this law.

"Since the cost of old age pension or unemployment insurance will be added to the cost of production and increased taxation, we believe that no class should be exempted from the benefits of these laws."

State's Electoral Vote Being Cast

Electoral College Meets Today In State Capitol To Cast Vote

DAY'S CEREMONY MATTER OF ROUTINE

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Dec. 14.—History has a way of repeating itself, and today Pennsylvania's electoral college will meet in Harrisburg, cast an 80-year-old precedent into unpredictable political waters, and vote for a Democratic president and vice president.

Not since 1857, when James Buchanan, a native of Pennsylvania shunted the commonwealth's 36 electoral votes into his presidential column, has this happened.

And only since then has the state nodded its favor to any presidential candidate other than a Republican one; in 1912 when "Teddy" Roosevelt rode roughly through Pennsylvania on the "bull moose" ticket to capture the commonwealth's support.

Today's ceremony will be a matter of routine; a tradition constitutionally prescribed. There will be no mockery of medieval pageantry, no blaring trumpets, proclaiming a new president has been elected.

This was all done November 3 by a perfunctory tabulation of ballots. Yet, the meeting today is in itself historic and will not be devoid of American pomp.

Along with 523 other members of the electoral college in 42 states Pennsylvania will cast its 36 votes, representing the total number of senators and representatives in the state, for President Roosevelt and vice president Garner.

Wabash Bears Win Grid Title

Sam Copple Scores Winning Touchdown; Colalucas Play Well

LARGE CROWD SEE EXCITING BATTLE

In one of the most exciting football games played here in years, the Wabash Bears, of Mahoningtown, eked out a well-earned 6-0 triumph over the Colalucas, of the South Side, Sunday afternoon on the E. & A. Field. By virtue of the victory, the Bears captured the coveted New Castle independent title. More than 1,000 fans witnessed the tussle.

After losing two fine scoring chances, the Bears came out in the third period like wildcats. "Ruffles" Johns, New Castle's gate crashing specialist, took time out from his duties to play with the Bears and really was responsible for paving the way for the winning score. Johns broke his way through the line and blocked and recovered a Colaluca punt on the four-yard mark. Sammy Copple splashed his way through the line for the winning touchdown.

Charles Tip Richards, playing his 14th year, intercepted six passes and was easily one of the outstanding performers on the field. "Ruffles" Johns was an other feature player with the Bears. Jack Hitchens and Brown were the Colalucas' best bets. The Colalucas put up a stubborn battle throughout and had it not been for that blocked punt, the count would have probably been 0-0. The Slabtowners passed up one good scoring chance.

In closing their grid season, the new independent champs played nine games, winning six, losing one, and tieing two. Blackie Adamo and Al Russo head the Bears.

JUNIOR CHAMBER MEETING

Members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce will gather for a regular meeting in The Castleton tonight at 7:30.

The funny part is that economic royalists elected Roosevelt. People getting relief naturally voted for him, and the royalists are soaked to provide money for relief.

Correct this sentence: "If I know they are lying,' said the judge, "I always have them indicted for perjury."

Braddock And Max Schmeling To Meet June 3

Very Likely That Joe Louis Will Get Chance With Winner Of Title Fight

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—For purposes of a better understanding, let us not as yet consider the possible winner of the Braddock-Schmeling prize fight for the heavyweight championship of the world. For one thing, they're not going to fight this prize fight until June 3. For another, we happen to know the next best thing, which is the certain and, in fact, ordained loser.

That's the Madison Square Garden Corporation which has insisted all along that it will do most of the promoting and, therefore, will be in a splendid position to pay most, if not all, of the bills.

Contracts Signed

I've just seen a copy of the Braddock-Schmeling contract, signed before and filed with the boxing commission as of Saturday, and it's financial terms are something to make strong men turn pale and pale men turn ashen. Braddock, the champion, is to get 41½ per cent of the net receipts. Schmeling is to get 20 per cent.

That makes a total of 62½ per cent for the fighters, according to my "ready reckoner for bright pupils," and the promoter doesn't live who can make an arrangement of that kind turn in anything except an alibi. There is one exception to this statement, but it won't prevail in this case.

What will prevail is a certain amount of racial antipathy here for Schmeling as a German, meaning that the failure of the Schmeling-Louis fight to sell itself out last summer, will be repeated with Braddock in June, only with increased emphasis. The one last summer they didn't mind so much, for they thought Schmeling had arranged to have his intellect spattered in the first three rounds. But the one coming up brings him all the way up against the world's championship and they're not going to like that at all.

May Gross Million

I happen to know, as a matter of fact, that the chain-letter writers are at it already and they'll doubtless get more rabid about it as the time approaches, So, what? why, this:

The Garden corporation, which wishes it known that co-promoter Mike Jacobs is just a hired spectator, is figuring on a $40 "top" and talking about a million dollars. This is all based on the capacity of its Long Island bowl.

The bowl seats 60,000—but it won't on the evening of June 3 next. It'll do all right if it seats 30,000 people and gets $400,000—all right, that is, until it starts to pay two fighters 62½ per cent of what may be left.

It looks like a regulation ski jump from which you usually see daredevils sail through the air for hundreds of feet, but this picture was taken in Madison Square Garden, New York City, where a winter sports carnival is under way. The jump starts right under the roof, and the snow is made by a machine which grinds up huge chunks of ice.

Willie MacFarlane, of Hollywood, Fla., forged ahead at the three quarter mark in the $4,000 open golf tournament with rounds of 68 and 64 Sunday, for a 54-hole total of 200, four under par. For the third time in four years the world's three cushion billiards championship belonged today to Welker Cochran, of San Francisco. He won the title shortly after midnight Saturday when he beat Kinrey Matsuyama, of Japan, 50 to 37, in 53 innings.

Joe Louis To Battle Simms At Cleveland

Brown Bomber And Cleveland Battler Will Meet Tonight In 10-Rounder

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Writer

CLEVELAND, Dec. 14—Gambling with virtually no optimism on the long chance that Joe Louis' chin will crumble again, a sell-out crowd of 12,000 will be crammed into the auditorium tonight when the Brown Bomber meets Eddie Simms, rugged heavy-fisted local pride and joy, in a heavyweight bout billed for 10 rounds.

Simms apparently stands alone with the firm conviction that he will bring Louis down just as Max Schmeling did last June. The betting odds, ranging as high as 10 to on Louis, reflect the public's attude toward the proposition, but t remote possibility—or maybe it' hope—that Simms will score knockout is serving as a lure at turnstiles.

Simms Can Punch

The 195-pound, rough-hewn onian has the necessary Making proper connections i his difficulties are expected in.

Simms, dwelling at cons length on the Schmeling victo Louis, is modestly picking hir win, and, if he means it, isn't in the least But not even he c much chance of his out-gall Louis to a decision. It is a knoc or nothing, that being the kind fight this one is, and on that ba Simms has been readied for the k —as recipient or otherwise.

Trial By Jury Is Waived By Ira Huff, Court Hears Case

By agreement of counsel the case of Ira P. Huff, colored, charged with dealing in securities which were not properly registered, was heard by Judge W. Walter Braham at court this morning, without a jury. The case is one in which Huff had purchased a patent for a collapsible steel quilt from Noah Coles. It is alleged that after the purchase Huff proceeded to form a company to manufacture and market the invention, but in doing so neglected to register the securities of the corporation as required by the act of assembly. The particular allegation in the indictment is that he sold five shares of stock to Joseph N. Harris. It is claimed others were solicited to buy stock. Arthur D. Davidson was the first witness examined. The court will hand down a decision later.

Discharged C. C. C. Men Eligible For Army Enlistment

Word has been received in New Castle by Corporal George Trebesh, that men who have been discharged from the C. C. C. camps and are not eligible for reselections for a period of one year, are eligible for enlistment in the United States army. This word was sent from the district office in Pittsburgh, and as these men from C. C. C. camps have already passed army regulation requirements they may enlist for two-year service in the army.

Only those persons between the ages of 18 and 35 years will be eligible. Vacancies exist, according to Trebesh, in Hawaii, Panama, Maryland, Virginia and Pennsylvania. Full information regarding this enlisting may be secured from the army station in the postoffice building.

Seniors To Present Graduation Play

"The Charm School" To Be Staged By Members Of Class On Friday Night

Friday of this week the senior class opens its January commencement season with a public performance of Alice Duer Miller and Robert Milton's modern comedy, "The Charm School." The cast of eighteen has entered upon its sprightly task with enthusiasm and is now engaged in putting the finishing touches on what they insist will be the best high school dramatic performance given in this city for a number of years. Miss Clara Hartsuff as dramatics coach, will see to it that the standard of high school stage productions in this city is maintained.

Wanda Wynder

Reid Shiner has the leading role as Austin Bevans, a devastatingly handsome young man who inherits a girls' boarding-school and decides to assume the duties of principal himself. The outcome is inevitable even for so stern an educator as the hero intends to be. But the series of situations leading to that outcome is particularly well-planned for side-splitting comedy and the dialog is wholesomely spicy. In all this "Shine" figures largely and easily. There is little of the time that he is off the stage when the curtain is up. Recently young Mr. Shiner was introduced to the local friends of high school dramatics in the school play, "Seven Chances." He is one of the best known members of the January graduating class and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph B. Shiner of North Walnut street.

Wanda Wynder plays opposite Reid Shiner in "The Charm School." "Windy" was Peggy Wood in "Seven Chances" and finds herself in an equally romantic role in "The Charm School." If she is a good deal of a siren, and quite as selfish as sirens always have been, she does have "charm" as sirens always have had and the audience will forgive her the selfishness just as her victim does—at least for the duration of the play. Miss Wynder is one of the popular members of her class. She is the daughter of Mrs. Hazel Wynder of South Ray street.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

What a week-end, what a time and do I feel fine. Took a little trip over the State and did we have fun. You should be sure and see Pennsylvania first. This was about my 50th trip but I still get a kick out of the mountains. The roads were clear but the ground around Center county and the ajoining counties were covered with snow. The fog was very thick Friday night. In fact I drove 70 miles in a fog that was as thick as bean soup. It was very nice though, it made me think of jolly old London. It was in this fog that the ex-king of England gave his little talk. It was in this bean soup that I heard that he could go no longer without the woman he loved. By jove it was thrilling.

* * *

On December 14, 1799 George Washington the father of our country took his last breath. I was just wondering what he would think of the government today. I bet the WPA would have hit the spot at Valley Forge.

* * *

It looks like a Merry Christmas this year and am I glad to see so much buying. It has been a long time since some of the people have been able to do their Christmas shopping.

Oddities in the news—Mrs. W. H. Watson of Mahoningtown lost her dress. (No she wasn't wearing it.) Knowing what to do next, she put a little classified ad in The News. Within one hour after the paper was off the press the dress had been returned. Results are what the little fellows are noted for. Try them some time.

Stock Market Moves Upward

Leaders Gain As Much As Two Points In Brisk Market Today

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—The stock market moved upward briskly today, leaders gaining as much as two points and the high-speed ticker falling behind momentarily in the first hour.

Steel operations continue at the best levels since 1930. Meanwhile, earnings and dividends still drift in.

Steels, packing shares, farm implements, motors and some utilities set the forward pace.

Chrysler was best with a runup of better than two points, as General Motors advanced half as much.

Standard Gas issues continued to dominate in utilities, the six and seven per cent preferreds spurting three and two points, respectively, into new high ground. Electric Power and Light also reached a new 1936 peak on a fractional climb.

American Can soared close to five points before meeting profit-taking.

Deere and International Harvester both reached peaks for the year on gains of better than a point. Bethlehem spurted a point and U. S. Steel fractionally. Johns-Manville went into new high ground.

Aviations, amusements, oils and packing shares showed appreciable fractional gains.

Bonds climbed irregularly higher. Grains and cotton were firm, with wheat the feature on gains of as much as three cents a bushel.

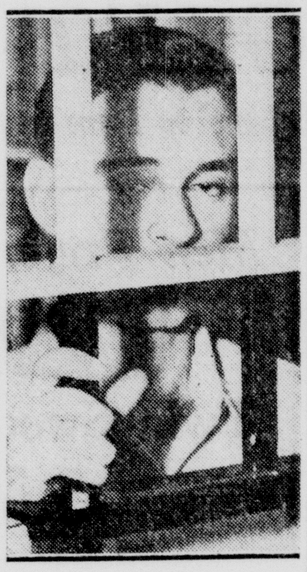
A 19-Year-Old Killer



Shown in his cell a few minutes before he appeared in court, Roy Morgan, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., is on trial for the slaying of 67-year-old Mrs. Catherine C. Hall. The lad crept up the back stairs of the Hall home and fired a rifle bullet through a door, killing the aged mother of the man Morgan had intended to slay. (Central Press)
